Reaction to Moon Proposal Generally Good

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—President Kennedy's dramatic bid for a U.S.-Soviet moon expedition won generally enthusiastic reaction. His moderate policy statement stirred guarded hopes for progress in easing cold war tensions at the U.N. General Assembly session.

Kennedy's address Friday, following an unusually mild policy speech by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, heartened diplomats weary of bitter exchanges between the two big powers.

Gromyko welcomed the conciliatory nature of Kennedy's speech, but reserved comment on specific proposals, pending study. He also conveyed to Kennedy the "warm personal greetings" of Premier Khrushchev at a reception after the President's speech.

Gromyko's remarks seemed to support the growing hope that the Soviets, seared by the Cuban crisis and differences with Peking, are more interested in East-West amity than in rocket-rattling.

Kennedy told the 111-nation assembly the world may have reached "a pause in the cold war." He set out basic U.S.-Soviet differences, but called for further steps in easing cold war tensions, specifically by pooling U.S. and Soviet space research and experience for a moon shot.

Delegates praised the tenor of Kennedy's speech and echoed his call for peaceful settlement of East-West differences.

There was considerable speculation why Kennedy suggested the joint moon expedition. Some delegates expressed the belief that Kennedy feels the United States cannot beat the Soviets to the moon on its own.

It was noted that U.S. space officials at Cape Canaveral voiced disappointment over this as an indication that the President seems ready to abandon the U.S. moon project.

His suggestion came at a time when public enthusiasm for the project apparently is waning, costs are spiraling and Congress no longer is rubber-stamping space agency money requests.

Delegates agreed that a combined moon journey would do a lot for East-West amity.

Editorial reaction in London was generally enthusiastic. In Bonn, West German government and opposition leaders joined in hailing the speech.

The Soviet news agency Tass gave extensive summaries of Kennedy's address but made no mention of his moon shot proposal.

Kennedy's expression of support for civil rights in the United States and human rights around the world were seen by Moscow Radio as propaganda.

Kennedy returned to Newport, R.I., Friday night after a cordial reception from delegates and from U.S. citizens employed by the U.N.

Cuba boycotted his speech. Carlos Lechuga, head of the Cuban delegation, said he did not want to hear "distortions of truth" from Kennedy in regard to the Cuban revolution. The Israeli seats were vacant because it was a Jewish holiday.

Gromyko's mild speech Thursday was in sharp contrast to the bitter invective the Soviets usually employ when addressing the world forum.

But Gromyko's attack on West Germany made many delegates wonder how far the Soviet Union really intends to go in lessening tensions in that direction.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson commented that Gromyko's professed aim to lower international tensions was welcome to the United States. But he noted that the Soviet still "claimed all virtues for the Soviet Union and assigned all mistakes to the West."

Princess in School

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne, 13 years old and a big girl for her age, cast off the royal apron strings today and became an English school girl.

Queen Elizabeth II brought the princess on the overnight train from Scotland to see her settled in at Benenden, an expensive girl's school 20 miles from London.

Warm Days, Cool Nights the Pattern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A weather pattern of warm days and cool nights has set in over Arkansas and the Weather Bureau predicts it will last well into next week.

Cool air which sent maximum temperatures down into the 60s in the Great Lakes and Northern Plains areas is expected to stay well north of Arkansas.

Arkansas highs Thursday were near 90 degrees and overnight lows ranged from the mid 50s in the northwest to the mid 60s in the south. Today's highs and tonight's lows were expected to be in the same range.

The five-day outlook calls for temperatures to average near normal highs of low to mid 80s and normal lows of mid 50s to mid 60s.

Cindy Could Again Be Forming

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The Weather Bureau office at Houston said today that Cindy may be forming another storm or hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico after sweeping in a great arc across Texas and reaching the Mexican border at Brownsville.

The Weather Bureau said it is watching the movement closely. The storm dumped 5-inch rains during the night in the southernmost tip of Texas.

Cindy, with 80-mile an hour winds and pushing 8-foot tides before it, hit Texas between Galveston and Beaumont Tuesday.

Then it hung over southeast Texas for a time, dumping a fraction less than two feet of water on that area.

Late Thursday the barely discernible air movement had moved between Victoria and Corpus Christi and limped on during the night to the area where Texas and Mexico meet at the coast.

"I think just the edge of it is at sea and forming a storm like we had here," said E. A. Farrell, head of the Houston Weather Bureau office.

He said no hurricane or storm eye had yet formed but that it might do so.

Hurricanes and tropical storms lose strength over land but gain power over the sea.

The Weather Bureau warned of rain and occasional squalls along the coast with wind gusts up to 30 knots. Small craft warnings went up between Port Arthur and Brownsville.

The heavy rains in the Orange-Beaumont-Port Arthur area Tuesday and Wednesday sent 6,000 persons from their homes to shelters, the Red Cross reported. The Red Cross said 3,000 homes suffered some water damage.

In Jefferson County alone, said the Civil Defense Council, damage amounted to $9,228,823.

Meanwhile, a threatened levee at Port Acres in far southeast Texas appeared secure after two days of efforts to save it with sandbags.

Clue Found to Mental Trouble

By JOHN BARBOUR

Associated Press Science Writer

WARRENTON, Va. (AP)—A strange, symptom-less virus — so common most people have had it by age 30 — may produce more brain damage and mental retardation in newborns than measles.

It has, at least, according to the findings of researchers at Johns Hopkins University where mothers and their babies have been tested for the virus, said Dr. Robert Cooke, Johns Hopkins pediatrician.

The findings came to light in an interview at the two-day White House conference on mental retardation which ends today.

Furthermore, there is good evidence that the virus—once it has infected an unprotected mother—can invade the baby within her womb and cause brain damage as late as the fifth month of pregnancy, perhaps later.

There is also evidence that the virus is active in producing brain damage not only before birth — but for a few months afterwards, Dr. Cooke said.

Because it produces no symptoms or signs and can live for some time in the salivary glands, it is difficult to detect except in the urine of the infected person or in a check for protective antibodies in the blood.

The virus is called the cytomegalovirus — a big cell virus—so-called because it enlarges infected cells.

Westerner in Cuba Is Lonely Man

EDITOR'S NOTE — These impressions of life in Cuba today are by a correspondent of the Camden (N.J.) Catholic Star Herald, which sent him to Cuba. As a British citizen he had ready access to the island and could stay as long as he wanted, which turned out to be nine days. The article was made available to The Associated Press.

By ARTHUR JONES

HAVANA (AP)—The Westerner in Cuba is the loneliest man in the world. He is trusted by neither the people nor the government.

His entry and exit depend entirely on the whim of the government and the on-again off-again Mexico City flight of Cubana Airlines.

But the Mexicans are even more suspicious than the Cubans. Every person using Mexico City to enter Cuba is photographed, checked and rechecked.

Despite the tension, however, the whole affair can be rather humorous. If Cubana's Bristol Britannia leaves on the right day it can be said to be on time—hours mean nothing.

Buckling their made-in-Michigan seat belts on my flight into Cuba were an assortment of Eastern Europeans, some Indonesians, returning Cuban officials and diplomatic couriers. The largest single nationality was Czechoslovak.

Public dining offers only croquettes and various forms of rice. There are about six good — and high-priced — restaurants and I managed. The diet is not balanced. There are few if any vegetables. Since I was somewhat concerned about my citrus intake I managed to get lemon and lime juice by ordering daiquiris without rum. The only drink readily available is rum and cola. Beer is available only on the day it arrives from the brewery. There isn't enough to last long.

Cuban knowledge of America is quite dated. One gun-toting girl who laid her rifle on the store counter to watch me buy Castro Christmas cards and souvenirs, bade me goodbye with "See you later alligator."

Some Cubans rely on parcels from the United States, Spain and other Latin-American countries to relieve the monotonous diet and supplement the meager quantities they receive.

Mainly there are concerned about their children. "The babies don't play with dolls any more after school. They say 'I'm going to make a speech like Fidel,'" said one mother. Children applaud the Red Chinese in the movies.

Cubans love their country. Many are prepared to stay no matter what. Others have found it easier to go along with the government although they complain it has changed its course.

While only babies and some very old folk receive milk the gun crews can be seen lapping it up by the quart. They got a good supply of meat too.

When I tried to buy some milk I found one loyal son of the revolution. Even at $5 a bottle he refused to part with one of the bottles on his cart.

Sex Scandal Report

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP)—The bulky official report on Britain's sex and security scandal will be published in full next week.

Prime Minister Macmillan decided to release the 60,000-word text after meeting Thursday with his cabinet and Harold Wilson, leader of the Labor party opposition. The publication date was not announced.

White Youths Admit Slaying Negro Boy

By REX THOMAS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—

Two white teen-agers, denied bond, remained in jail today for the slaying of a Negro boy in the wake of a church bombing which killed four Negro children.

The same grand jury which will decide whether to indict the white youths for murder will be asked to investigate the death of another Negro in the hours which followed the holocaust at the Negro church last Sunday. He was killed by a policeman.

Two state troopers assigned to Birmingham to help maintain order were involved in a brief scuffle Friday night with a Negro who, police said, later stabbed another white man.

The troopers, off duty, were in street clothes. Police said the Negro, booked as James Hall, apparently shoved one of the troopers and was dragged away by other Negroes after flashing a knife. Detective C.L. Pierce said Hall then stabbed Aubrey Hogan, who was waiting for a bus.

From elsewhere in the nation came new expressions of grief and resentment over the most recent outbreak of racial violence in Birmingham.

Negro author James Baldwin told an audience in New York Friday night that Americans should refrain from Christmas shopping until the nation "earns the right to celebrate the birth of Christ." He demanded the impeachment of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner, in tribute to the girls who died in the church bombing, proclaimed Sunday an official "day of sympathy, respect and determination to speed the day of equal opportunity for all."

Baldwin spoke at a memorial service for the slain children. Among those in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Christopher McNair, parents of the girls killed at the church.

The cancellation of an invitation to speak at Yale University prompted Wallace to send a telegram to Mayor Richard Lee of New Haven, Conn., saying, "I am certain that it is distasteful to the Yale Political Union to find that its cherished tradition of presenting the views of all can be curtailed overnight."

The political union had invited the governor to speak. Lee said Wallace would not be welcome because relations between Yale and the Negro community in New Haven might be disturbed.

The white youths charged with killing Virgil Ware, 13, while the Negro boy and his brother rode by on a bicycle last Sunday were bound over to the grand jury Friday.

Michael Lee Farle and Larry Joe Sims, both 16, have signed a statement saying that Sims fired two pistol shots at the Negro boy from a motor scooter the white youths were riding.

Sheriff Melvin Bailey said he has been unable to find any provocation for the shooting. The boys will remain in jail until a new grand jury meets Oct. 7 to consider the charge.

Injunction on Education Plan

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A preliminary injunction was issued by U.S. District Judge R. J. Putnam against an Arkansas-based educational plan Thursday.

The Securities and Exchange Commission sought the injunction because debenture bonds sold in the educational plan were not registered with the SEC. The SEC said the plan operated in interstate commerce.

Defendants were the American Foundation for the Advanced Education of Arkansas and its president, Dr. H. H. Smith; Arkansas Enterprises and its president, Robert Shaw, all of North Little Rock, Ark., and HACA Investments of Baton Rouge, La.

Putnam said there was no indication of fraud or bad faith in the dealings.

The SEC said the purpose of the foundation was to foster, encourage and promote college-level education by selling bonds to members of the foundation.

The judge said the foundation's "objectives are of the highest nature" but the bonds should be registered with the SEC.

Passage of Waterworks Bill Seen

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—The Pine Bluff Commercial, in a dispatch from Washington Thursday, quoted an employee of the Senate Public Works Committee as predicting that a bill to authorize construction of water projects will pass Congress early in November.

C. O. Snead, a committee employee, was quoted as dismissing concern shown over the bill's progress as nonsense.

Joseph Brennan, an employee of the House Public Works Subcommittee, was quoted as saying "It hardly seems conceivable that work would stop on any of these projects this year." He said he did not believe the bill would fail.

The House and Senate are waging a jurisdictional fight that has tied up the bill which would authorize additional spending for seven basin projects, including Arkansas River work.

Brennan and Snead both said they believed a solution would be discovered before present Arkansas River appropriations are exhausted.

The House version of the bill would increase the authorization for projects within the basin, allowing construction to proceed after appropriations had been approved. It includes an authorization increase of $784 million over a two-year period, including $157 million for the Arkansas Basin.

The Senate version of the bill has cut the total increase back to $61 million, including $31 million for Arkansas, to carry work through June 30, 1964. The Senate has added nine projects which the House considers controversial, but Arkansas is not one of them. The Senate has approved the increases, but they are for only one year.

Army Engineers requested $91 million for the 1964 budget, leaving a $31 million deficit from the amount already authorized. The Senate proposed a one-year authorization to meet the deficit. The House wants the 1964 and 1965 authorizations to be equal.

Wally Briscoe, an office employee of Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., said some of the most powerful men in Washington are behind the river work in Arkansas, Texas and Ohio.

"It is unlikely that work will slow just because of this dispute," he said.

John Tofani of the Budget Department of the Army Engineers in Washington was quoted by the Commercial as saying that if funds were exhausted, contractors would be notified in advance. He said that usually money is borrowed so work can continue until Congress acts.

Against Tax Cut If Spending Isn't Slashed

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—

Republicans have told the people that Congress would be "playing Russian roulette with our destiny" if it approves President Kennedy's tax cut bill without a brake on federal spending.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, chief GOP spokesman on tax matters, presented the argument Friday night, saying the tax bill "offers a clear opportunity to the down" federal spending but that Congress can't rely alone on Kennedy's promise to hold spending down.

"It is time to judge the administration by what it does, more than what it says," Byrnes said over the ABC and CBS television and radio networks and the Mutual radio network.

The Republican reply to President Kennedy's appeal will be continued tonight when Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri speaks on NBC television and radio at 6 p.m. EST.

The networks, all of which carried Kennedy's speech Wednesday night, made equal time available to the Republican National Committee.

Byrnes, of Wisconsin, contended the administration is taking "an unprecedented gamble with the entire economic system of the United States" and that if "this long shot does not come through" $100 billion may be added to the national debt before the budget is balanced.

Byrnes, senior Republican on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, is proposing an amendment making the tax cut inoperative unless the President submits, in January or earlier, spending estimates not above $97 billion for the fiscal year that began last July 1 and $98 billion for next year.

Byrnes termed these "comfortable requirements" for a "reasonably prudent administration, with a Congress pledged to spending control."

They would represent reductions of about $1 billion from the spending level now in effect, and probably a substantially deeper cut next year. But Byrnes said the limit would permit $4 billion more expenditures this year than last.

He said if spending can be tied down "future cuts will be a certainty as our economy expands." Promises are not enough, Byrnes said.

"What we need is a firm, unbreakable commitment... we simply ask that Congress make this tax cut contingent upon fulfillment of the promise to control spending."

Byrnes said his amendment would neither delay the bill nor change the size or the nature of the tax cut.

Commenting on Rep. Byrnes' speech, Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic House whip and also a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said:

"It is astonishing that Republicans can't even be for business if the plan is sponsored by a Democrat."

Boggs argued that "the sure way to keep chronic deficits is not to pass a tax bill."

Makes Tuning Fork Out of Steel Pole

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—U.S. Engineers used a Bodine Sonic Pole Driver, which, in effect, turned two 55-foot steel piles into tuning forks Thursday and drove them into the ground faster than steam hammers do.

A Bodine drives piles with vibrations. Engineers are seeking the best method and type of piles for construction of locks and dams on the Arkansas River.

It took four minutes to drive a 16-inch pile pipe with vibrations, compared to about 6½ minutes with steam hammers. A 14-inch H-shape pile went down in 2½ minutes with vibrations, compared to about 3½ minutes with steam hammers.

Irrigation Important in Arkansas

By LEN TALIAFERRO
Associated Press Staff Writer

For years it has been the plight of the farmer to plow his land, plant his crops and then sit and watch the skies hopefully and pray about rain.

There is nothing new in the story that farmers either have too much or too little rain, but never the right amount. Too often the story is true.

But all this is changing and irrigation is the instrument through which that change is being made.

Increasing numbers of Arkansas farmers are turning to irrigation as insurance against drought, which technically may occur more frequently than the general public realizes.

Scientists for the University of Arkansas Agricultural Experiment Station at the Agricultural Extension service have defined a drought as 20 days or more in which each ten-day period has less than one-half inch of rainfall.

To the general public, a 20-day period in which less than an inch of rain falls may hardly be noticeable, but to the farmer, this may be critical.

In an Extension service publication, "Cotton Irrigation for Arkansas," James L. Gattis, agricultural engineer, and Runyan Deere, cotton specialist, presented a table showing droughts at key points in Arkansas for the 28 years between 1927 and 1954.

The table indicated that Fayetteville and Fort Smith had 55 droughts during that period. Blytheville had 82, Texarkana had 73 and Pine Bluff had 74.

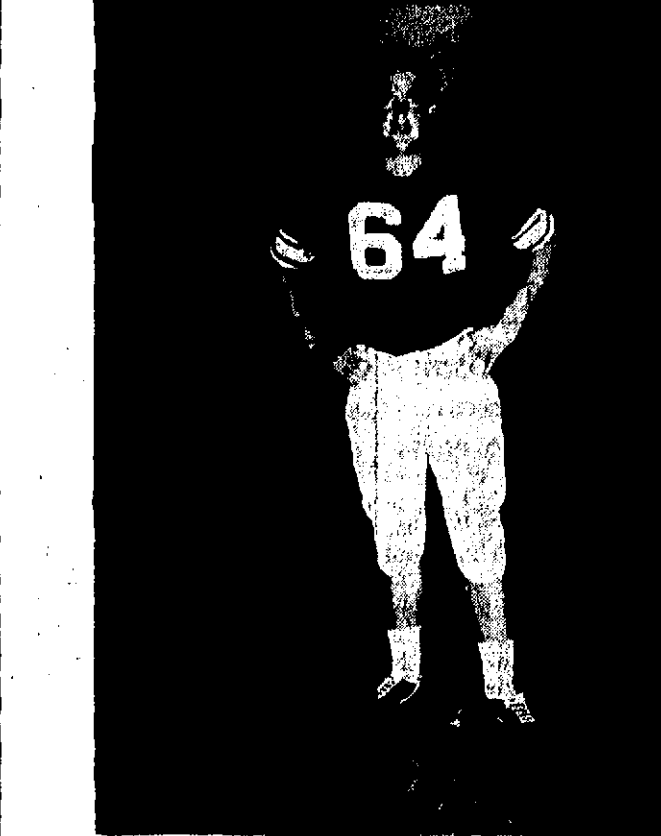

Even more significant, the table showed that Fort Smith had 13 droughts of 50 days or more duration. Little Rock and Helena had 12 each and Texarkana and Pine Bluff had 10 each.

The need for water in the right amount at the right time has led to considerable research in Arkansas by the Extension Service and the Experiment Station.

This research and the practical application of it by farmers has provided overwhelming evidence of the feasibility, and in some situations, the necessity of irrigation.

Farmers are becoming increasingly aware of this. Gattis said 1,050,000 acres of land were irrigated in Arkansas last year. This included a little under 400,000 acres of rice which is normally produced through irrigation.

THE STORY: Blake Carden returns home after a harassing day in which he tried to soothe Valerie Hayward's impatience over the slow settlement of an estate, and his brother's request for a loan of $3,000.

VI
Blake passed the Wingates' home, on the eastern leg of the bend, then swung left into a gravel driveway, and he was home.

The Carden property filled the inside of the U, its garden lawn following the curve, its front windows looking southward at the bay as it could be seen between the water-front houses across the drive. The four Cardens lived here under an unusual but thoroughly amicable plan. The house had two wings, two rooms and a bath in each, with a common living room and kitchen in between. Todd and his wife Ruth, the Wingates' daughter, had converted the west wing into an apartment; the judge and Blake occupied the other. Ruth cooked and kept house for them all and did it superbly, making them feel well cared for. It was such a mutually agreeable arrangement that none of them had ever thought of changing it, of living separately.

Ruth had her own special appreciation of it. The three Wingates had always lived in close rapport, and after marrying Todd three years ago she had had to move no farther from her parents than across the street.

Ruth was evidently at home, Blake saw, and his father too. Her cream - yellow compact and the judge's old black sedan were sitting inside the garage. He was surprised, considering the pressures on Todd, that his brother hadn't yet shown up, wasn't waiting for him.

Blake ran his car in. When he opened the door connecting the garage with the kitchen, he heard Ruth speaking in the living room. Her voice was lowered but unsteady, shaking on the verge of tears.

"If Todd would only tell me! I want to help him if I can. But he keeps shutting me out. I don't even know what's wrong - not really, not all of it."

Another familiar voice, a woman's, answered her. This was Tessa Wingate, her mother. Tessa's

OUTLINED

Short skirts save lives, says the American Automobile Association. It's an eye-opening claim, but hardly believable. Sure, auto headlights pick up the stockings or bare legs of women at night. That must avoid a lot of pedestrian fatalities.

But short skirts have another effect in daylight. Have you seen the drivers on South Tryon who practically break their necks turning to ogle the pretty secretaries during the lunch hour? Or to get a better angle as knees, flesh and nylon mingle in that interesting panorama as a woman driver gets in or out of a car? To say nothing of the distraction offered when the good-looking babe who accepts a lift with you finds it impossible to hide her dimpled knees.

We wouldn't dare guess at the number of accidents caused by high hemlines. But we bet it would raise an eyebrow or two at the AAA. Surely auto accidents increase as the hemline creeps up. We know only one state of mind that's defense against it. This was expressed recently by a fellow riding a city bus. Noting the trouble a pretty young thing across the aisle was having in trying to keep her skirt tugged down discreetly, he observed: "Don't stretch your gingham for me, lady. My weakness is whiskey." Indonesia Regrets Raid on Embassy

By TONY ESCODA
Associated Press Staff Writer

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno's government, under pressure from London and Washington, expressed regret today for the burning and looting of the British Embassy and other British property by an Indonesian mob.

An uneasy calm prevailed in Jakarta. But British women and children started leaving Indonesia. The International School catering to children of foreign diplomats was closed for the day. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the wives and children of Americans were advised to stay at home.

Strong forces of Indonesian troops stood guard at various points, including British Ambassador Andrew G. Gilchrist's residence, the residential compound of the Shell Oil Co., and British homes which had been pillaged by rioters Wednesday.

Troops appeared to have restored order after the rampage by more than 10,000 Indonesians protesting creation of the British-sponsored, anti-Communist Federation of Malaysia.

Two Asian statesmen—Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan and Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand—offered peacemaking services.

Ikeda, who is heading to Southeast Asia Monday, said in Tokyo he will try his "very best to facilitate a solution." In Bangkok, Khoman pledged Thailand will undertake "anything we can do" to solve the crisis.

President Sukarno's government issued a conciliatory statement deploring the mob violence, worst demonstration ever staged here against a foreign power. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home had denounced "such uncivilized behavior" and threatened to sever diplomatic relations unless assured British subjects and property would be protected.

The Indonesian government statement was issued after U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones called on Sukarno with a message from Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressing the U.S. government's concern over the rioting. Rusk voiced similar concern to Indonesian Ambassador Zairin Zain in Washington.

The Indonesian statement said the government "certainly does not approve" of mob action and blamed the outbreak in part on "the destruction of the Indonesian Embassy in Kuala Lumpur (capital of Malaysia)."

That riot followed Monday's stoning of the British and Malaysian embassies in Jakarta. The Indonesian mob, screaming "Crush the British" and "Crush Malaysia," vented its fury against Britain's support of Malaysia, four-day-old nation formed in a federation of Malay, Singapore and the British Borneo territories of Sarawak and North Borneo.

Sukarno opposed the federation on the ground it would perpetuate British colonialism in Southeast Asia. British officials believe, however, Sukarno is more interested in trying to take over Sarawak and North Borneo, which share the island of Borneo with Indonesian territory.

The Indonesian government said it had taken steps to prevent further violence.

In Kuala Lumpur, about 30 anti-Indonesian demonstrators seized the former Indonesian Embassy residence and threatened to burn themselves and the building if police tried to eject them. Protesters stayed inside until Malaysian diplomats returning from Jakarta were safely home.

RICH BUT POOR

Dear Helen: This may sound strange to you but I am one of those less fortunate ones with money. I mean friendship-wise. I am always plagued by the question, "Do they like me for myself or for my money?"

Some while back I met the friend I sought—one like an older brother in whom I could confide. Never having had anyone to turn to as a child or teen, I had to do the figuring out myself.

During this period my parents were divorcing and I was without a home. This man and I talked about what I should do next. I felt obligated for his moral support and kindness.

He would not take money so I bought him a few gifts which I knew he needed. Now my parents' divorce is coming up. I have a lot on my mind. He told me last night he wants to call off our friendship until he gets caught up with his thoughts. I am completely lost. Help me by publishing this in the paper. He always reads your column. —Friendless Man

Dear Friendless: Your problem is older than the tadpole. How can any wealthy person know, completely and infallibly, that he is liked by every friend for his sterling self rather than for his material assets? Fiction and stark life are filled with millionaires who are the toast of the town as long as they picked up the check and kept the food and drink flowing for their "large circle of friends," but died penniless and unattended.

How can we tell a "fair weather friend" from a friend who will stick by us when we're just another statistic in the Census report?

Perhaps you have been a little patronizing toward your "friend." Friendships are not contracts or formal understandings; they are abstract ties that can be stronger than steel or as flexible as rubber bands, according to what we want them to be, and what we make them.

Let your friend catch up with his thoughts. You, meanwhile, might consider a late fall or winter cruise, meeting strangers who know nothing about your money. Don't display your wealth or discuss it. You'll soon find out who wants to know you or yourself and who wants a free ride on your wallet. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Firm Friends."

Dear Helen: I married at 14. My husband and I lived with his folks and weren't getting along at all. Then I had my baby and my husband wouldn't even come to the hospital, so I told him I wanted a divorce. Now he and I are dating secretly and want to get married again. Being older and knowing what love means we want to settle down. Tell us, are we doing right? —So Much in Love

Dear In Love: Obviously you and your husband got off to a bad start by marrying when you were too young. But you didn't give me any clue as to how long old you are now and whether you've both had sufficient time and experience to assume the responsibilities of marriage. Your difficulties undoubtedly matured you but how about your ex-husband dare you sure he's grown up enough to be a good husband and father? Why are you dating secretly? If there's some reason for it, then you shouldn't be dating at all. If there's none then see each other openly and freely. Before you remarry, however, be very certain that you're not repeating your first mistake.

Dear Helen: Please give me the address of orphanages. When I reach the right age I want to work in one. What type of job would be open? Want to Do Good

Dear Do Good: Consult your minister and look up Social Welfare Agencies in the classified section of your local telephone directory. Under that heading you will find listed all kinds of public private and church groups who will gladly advise you.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Probing Report of a Beating
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Acting Police Chief R. E. Briens said Thursday night that he is investigating a complaint that three Little Rock policemen severely beat a Negro boy last Monday.

Theodore Shaw, 15, gave his account in today's edition of the Southern Mediator Journal, a Negro newspaper. It reports similar complaints from the Negro community several times a year.

Briens said he received the complaint, talked to Shaw, and on the same day Shaw went to see a doctor for treatment of his injuries. Briens said Shaw was beaten. He is trying to determine if policemen were responsible.

Malaysia because of some territorial claims on North Borneo but has not been as vocal in its opposition as Indonesia. Malaysia has broken relations with both Indonesia and the Philippines.

Lausche of Ohio Against Test Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, told the Senate today he will vote against its ratification.

He said that the ban on all but underground testing of nuclear weapons could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

He added if that occurs, he has "great misgivings about what will happen to our country." He said that peace has been maintained only because of U.S. military might.

Lausche had been regarded as a supporter of the treaty since, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, he lined up with the majority in its 16-1 vote in recommending it to the Senate.

At the time, he reserved the right to change his mind.

He became the 14th senator to announce his opposition to the pact. His switch from indicated support reduced to 80 the number of senators who have announced their support of the treaty or indicated they will vote for its ratification.

President Kennedy has asked for a big margin "to show the world that the American people want a just peace."

He made a fresh bid for support of the treaty in his national radio and television address on tax legislation Wednesday night, saying the pact is "the first concrete limitation on the nuclear arms race since the bomb was first invented."

Erwin was to be arraigned Friday before U.S. Commissioner Sign Rasmussen in Hot Springs on charges of operating a still and possession of untaxed liquor.

Judge Orders Fine Reduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley reduced David M. Cohn's $10,000 fine to $5,000 Wednesday and gave him 90 days to pay it.

Cohn, 35, appeared in court after completing a 30-day jail sentence. He was convicted April 28 on 10 counts of fraud in the sale of securities.

Henley fined him the $10,000 on one count, invoked the 30-day jail sentence on another and suspended sentence on the other eight.

The judge said Wednesday that the $10,000 fine was illegal because $5,000 is the maximum fine for one count.

Cohn, a former Little Rock stockbroker, now lives on a farm near Kennett, Mo.

Offers Urban Renewal Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Public Service Commission was asked Thursday by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to approve a plan to offer urban renewal service to customers in an area north-west of North Little Rock.

Carlton Kinzler, district manager of the firm, said about 180 telephone subscribers in the area are limited to eight-party rural service. Beginning Nov. 1, he said, the company will be able to furnish one and two-party service.

PSC approval is necessary because the company would change rates in the area to standard Little Rock-North Little Rock rates.

Suspension of Molay Is Upheld

LITTLE ROCK AP)—The state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service board upheld its suspension of Dan Molay as manager of the Stone County ASCS office in Mountain View Thursday. Board Chairman J. C. Portis Lepanto said today. Molay had appeared his suspension to the board. Portis said he could now appeal to the deputy administrator of the ASCS in Washington. Portis refused to say why Molay was suspended. The Stone County ASCS committee said in a public statement earlier this month that the state committee suspended him because of "failure to perform the duties of office manager and because of errors in the 1962 and 1963 audits." The county committee strongly protested the suspension and called it "politically inspired." The county committee said the audits were corrected and accepted by the state committee and the federal Internal Audit Division.

THE ADEQUATE LORD

Now as never before the world needs the Holy light that flows from the Sacred pages of His Holy Bible. The adequate Lord and the needy world must be brought together. Ambassadors of God must be summoned and transportation chartered to bear the gospel message to the "four corners of the earth." The candles we light must illuminate the Holy Word, and churches everywhere must keep preaching that Christ is what the world must have for its health and salvation. Like Paul and Barnabas may we be ministers of His Word. The whole world needs the light from the candles, the influence of the cross, and the inspiration of the Bible.

THE CHURCHES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION, THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat Communism on all fronts . . . to be faithful to God.

OUR PASTORS ARE GOD'S SERVANTS WHO CALL THE SIGNALS AGAINST THE ORGANIZED FORCES OF EVIL. THEY INVITE YOU TO ENLIST ON THE SIDE FOR GOD . . .

Be Strong in FAITH and Regular in ATTENDANCE at your CHURCH
